WDPL Seed Library Membership Information

The WDPL Seed Library is a free program open to all interested gardeners. Our goal is increasing access to fresh, healthy food options through seed sharing, community and education.

Membership in the WDPL Seed Library is based on the honor system. Each member can borrow seed packages at no charge; we simply ask that gardeners make an effort to save seeds and bring them back to the library after their harvest.

We encourage all members to learn basic seed-saving techniques by reading the New Member Brochure and researching additional resources. Please choose seeds that are suitable for your garden and your skill level—beginners may find tomatoes, peppers, beans and peas to be the easiest first-year crops.

If you are unable to save your own seeds at the end of the growing season, please consider donating a packet or two of fresh, commercially grown, open-pollinated (non-hybrid, non-GMO) seeds to keep our library stocked for future gardeners.

The WDPL Seed Library Promise

I promise that I will not knowingly buy, grow or share GMO seeds or plants.

As a member of the WDPL Seed Library, I promise to grow plants from these seeds and save seeds according to best practices to ensure that I return viable seed that will produce plants true to the variety I label them to be.
